

I don't want the FCC to implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy Law.

In the past I was getting around 16 calls a day including Saturday and Sundays and late in the evening calls. These calls tended to interrupted meals and just every day living activities. The individuals making the calls won't take no for an answer, in fact as soon as I would hang up they would call again.

I have call waiting and these calls would interrupt some phone conversation because I have children and I would hang up to answer the phone and it would be some type of a sales call.

An individual doesn't need this type of sales solicitations.

Thanks for giving me this opportunity to express my views on this important issue .
